

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE GAME-BIRDS OF THE COASTS AND LAKES OF THE NORTHERN HEMISPHERE.—A complete collection of the Singing Albatrosses-Shores and Island Waters, with a Description of the Mammals of Borealis and Muscovy-heads, by ROBERT BROWNEAU, Author of "The Game Birds of North America," "Spoonbill," "Country Life," etc. 12mo. 12s. 30s. Carlton.

Mr. Roosevelt writes with the enthusiasm of a genuine sportsman, and in a pleasant and spirited style, which will make his book welcome even to those who have no particular zest for the subject of it. In his introductory chapter he discusses the game-laws of the United States, and points out with great clearness the necessity for a still more stringent protection of game than is now practiced. He criticizes with becoming severity such unprincipled practices as the use of "batteries" and the like, which have already driven the aquatic birds away from certain parts of our coast. The greater part of his volume is devoted to chapters on the various kinds of game and the approved methods of killing it, wherein natural history, practical instructions in the sportsman's art, and amusing sketches of sporting scenes and adventures, are mingled in a most agreeable manner.

SUMMER REST. By CARL HARRISON. 12mo. pp. 356. Boston: Ticknor & Fields.

This dainty and well-printed volume needs no recommendation except the name of the popular author. It consists of nine of her latest essays contributed to the Atlantic Monthly, including "Orchard Talk," "A Prose Homestead," "Fancy Farming," and that pleasant paper on "King James the First," which is no doubt well remembered by all who read it in the magazine last Autumn.

LEONARD'S TRAVELERS' INSTRUCTOR.—This work is a descriptive guide which will be of great benefit to travelers between New York and Boston via Newark. It is very carefully compiled and is well chosen. Beside being a general directory, it contains a list of lack-laws in this city and Boston, steam, railroad and steamboat communications, ferry connections, horse railroads, &c., which cannot but be interesting and advantageous to travelers. It also contains a map of Long Island Sound, and the Newport and Old Colony Railway to Boston, which will prove very convenient and useful. We consider it a valuable advertising medium for Insurance Companies, hotels, places of amusement and manufacturers.

LITERARY ITEMS.

"The United States Service Magazine" has been discontinued. Its mission, as the publisher remarks in his voluntary, being ended with the disbanding of our great armies. The June number, which has just been received, contains a good steel-printed portrait of Gen. Meade.

Mr. George W. Hawes, of Indianapolis, is preparing an "Express Guide and Shipping Directory, embracing all the Express Stations in the United States, giving the name of Express Company, Town, County, and Railroads situated on," to be published annually. It will be a valuable hand-book for merchants and shippers of goods, giving not only full directions for transportation between all important points of the United States, but also a post-office register, a list of telegraph stations, and a classified business directory of its patrons, in which will be found the names of prominent houses in every branch of business. The work will make a respectable octavo volume, and will be published by Rand & Avery, Boston. Mr. C. H. Bass, No. 29 North Gay-st., Baltimore, is the general agent for the whole country.

Mr. Junius Brown, author of "Four Years in Fessin," is engaged upon a novel entitled "Hecla, a Tale of New-York Life."

Mr. Richard T. Colburn, another well-known Army correspondent, is weaving his war experiences into a book under the title of "Recollections of Twenty Campaings."

THE GREY WOMAN, By Mrs. GASKELL, Author of "Mary Barton," "Cinderford," "My Lady Ludlow," "Wives and Daughters," "Silvia's Lovers," etc. One volume, octavo. Price 50 cents. Published by T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, 306 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia.

AGENTS WANTED FOR HORACE GREELEY'S "AMERICAN CONFLICT."

Vol. I of this History has met with unparalleled success—120,000 copies sold, and is rapidly increasing. It is the best of the press of all, by leading Generals of the army, by the President, members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress, State Governors, Literary men, and by thousand politically opposed to the author.

Vol. II (and last) will be ready in August, and will contain the history of the first year of the war, its progress, and the conduct of time, labor, and pains-taking research, devoted to a careful siftng of the mass of crude surface material adopted by earlier writers without verification, and the compilation of facts, and the like. It will be the most overhauled—indeed much from the field—of any book ever produced, and the omission of qualifications of the author, to produce a record of surpassing exactness, which will be a valuable work for the nation.
